Quarterly Field Notes

The survey team recorded steady rainfall across the northern valley during the spring season. Water levels in the reservoir rose by a small margin, and the access road remained open for the entire period.

Observations

Migratory birds arrived two weeks earlier than in the previous year. The orchard on the eastern slope produced an above average harvest of apples and pears.